DEDICATION

MISS MARGARET HALLAM

Margaret Hallam registered as a Grade IX student in Victoria High school in September, 1917. In March, 1919, the school needed a secretary, and Miss Hallam, by then a Senior Commercial student, was appointed on probation. Now, in 1967, Miss Hallam, still on probation, retires after 48 years in the office. One of her family has said, "Margaret would never have taken the job if she had known that it would not be a permanent appointment."

In her 48 years as secretary, Miss Hallam has served under eight principals, and during this period some 20,000 individual students have passed through the school. Principals past and present have testified to her outstanding qualities: her never-failing sense of humor; her complete knowledge of administrative regulations and procedures, which made her at once a mentor and a proctor-- "I trained seven principals," says Miss Hallam, and there is more than an element of truth in the remark. Her meticulously accurate records and returns have reflected credit on the school, and have played a very real part in the success of our scholarship students, since she had charge of preparing, checking, and supervising the applications and transcripts.

For a half century, Victoria High has been Miss Hallam's life. Her service as secretary has gone far beyond the duties of her office. Although not many students have had close contact with her, all have profited by her complete devotion to the interests of the school. Tangible testimony to her long association remains in the thousands of record cards carrying her neat entries; and the World War I memorial in the main corridor is a reminder that she was the model for the right arm and hand of the figure holding the shield.

Miss Hallam's record of 48 years continuous service in a responsible position in the oldest secondary school in British Columbia is worthy of special recognition, and to pay tribute to this unique achievement the students and staff of Victoria High School affectionately dedicate this annual to Miss Margaret Hallam.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

This year's Camosun can well be regarded as a very special one. It has been dedicated to Miss Margaret Hallam, our retiring school secretary. Recognition of 48 years of outstanding service to this school marks this as a unique publication. In addition, it is the final Camosun of Canada's first 100 years. As such, it is our official publication of the Centennial Year. Congratulations are due to the Editors and their staff for producing such a worthwhile Annual in this historic year.

As you, our Graduates, go out into Canada's second century, we wish you well. We who are left behind, students and teachers, are confident that you are well qualified to get our New Century off to a "flying start".

COMMUNITY SERVICES

Food courses offer great scope and variety.

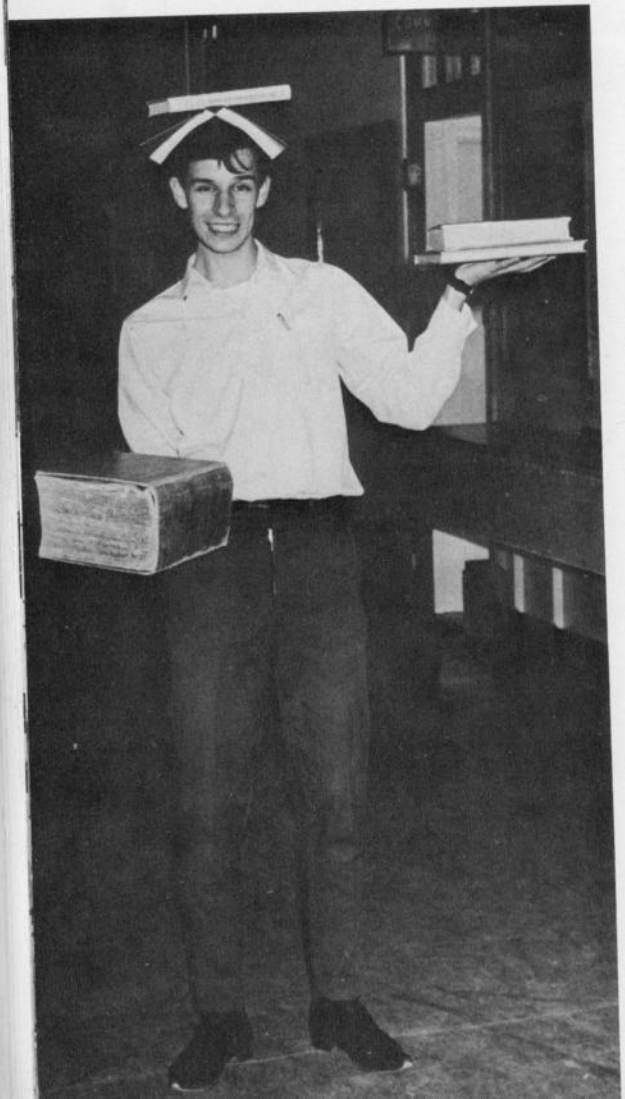
The new courses in Home Economics have been designed to broaden the scope of this subject far beyond the limitations of the usual household application. They offer not just dressmaking, but pattern cutting and even designing; not just babysitting, but a year-long study of all aspects of the child and its care; not just food preparation, but foreign recipes and catering; not just housekeeping, but motel management, merchandising and money-saving consumer information. All these ideas, moreover, are not confined to girls, as we will be having boys' classes in some of these subjects next fall.

Child care is one of the new courses offered.

Every step in sewing needs care and patience.

Office Practice students working on legal documents, transcribing shorthand, dictaphone work, and general office procedures.

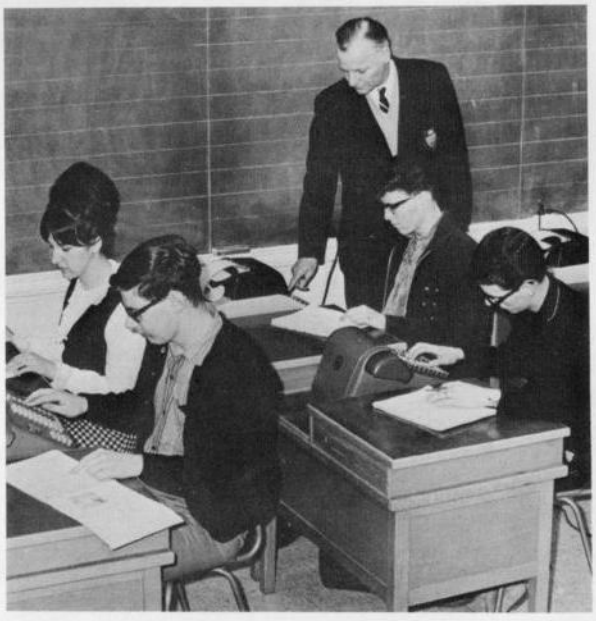
Balancing the books in Bookkeeping (?)



Student running the Gestetner in the Commercial Office.

COMMERCIAL

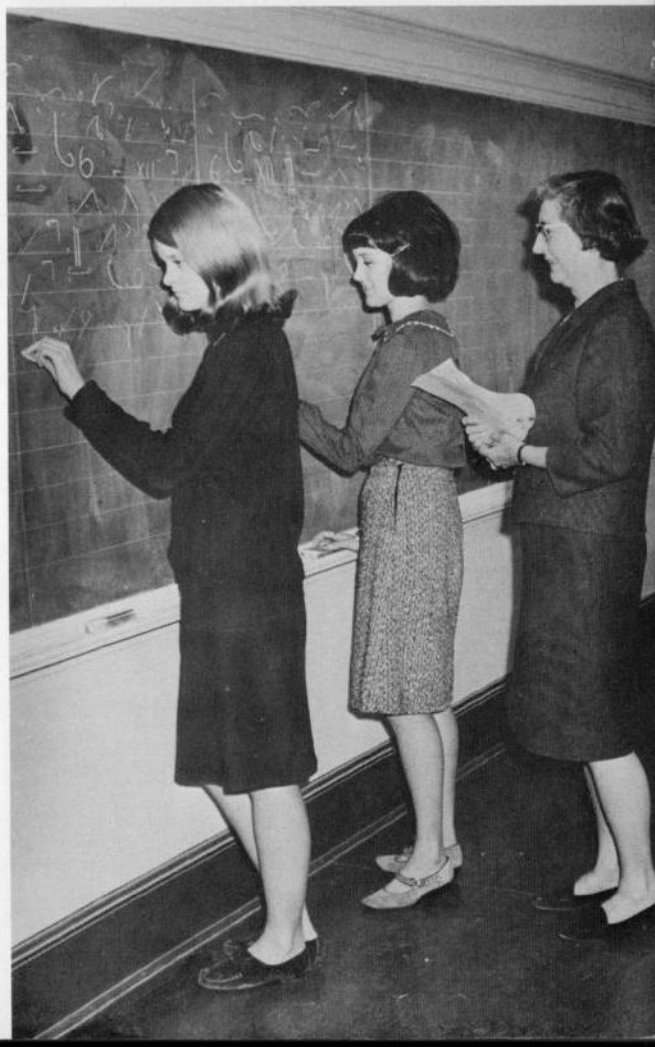
The Commercial program prepares students to take their places in the competitive business world. Shorthand and typing classes give the secretarial student the fundamental skills necessary for an introduction into the business field. General Mathematics, Bookkeeping, and Accounting provide the basis for a clerical or accounting career. Business knowledge is also obtained in office practice, office orientation, general business, and business machines. The experiences gained in class and in the Commercial Office will prove helpful to commercial students in finding and holding a job after graduation.



Students operating the ten-key and rotary calculators in Business Machines.

The Commercial Office not only gives the students an opportunity to gain experience, but also provide a valuable service to the school. These students handle all money pertaining to student affairs, type daily notices, and do work for teachers.

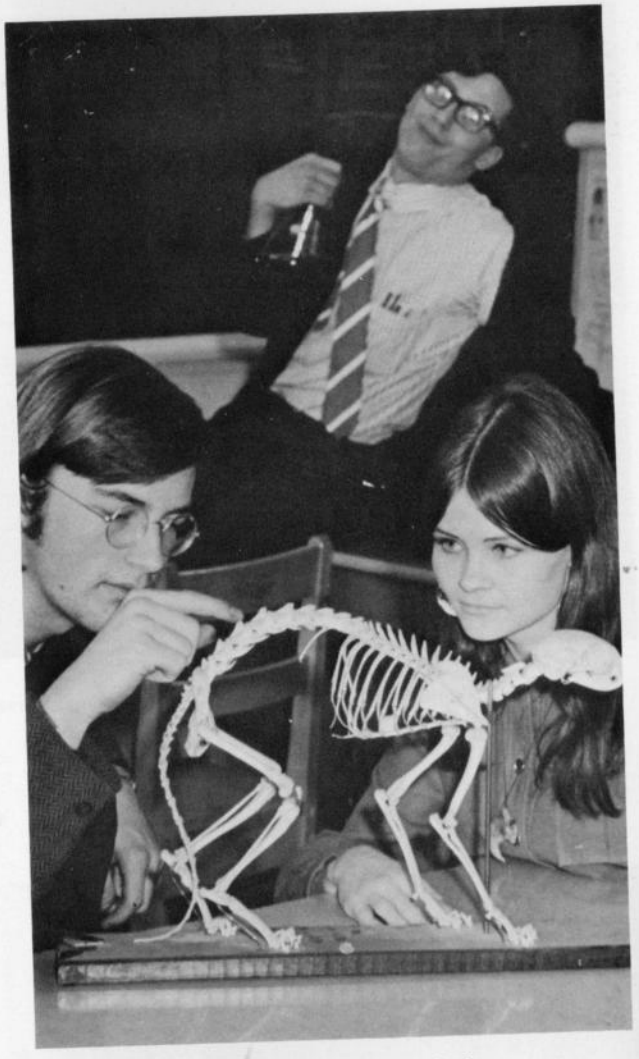
Secretarial students taking dictation.



SCIENCES

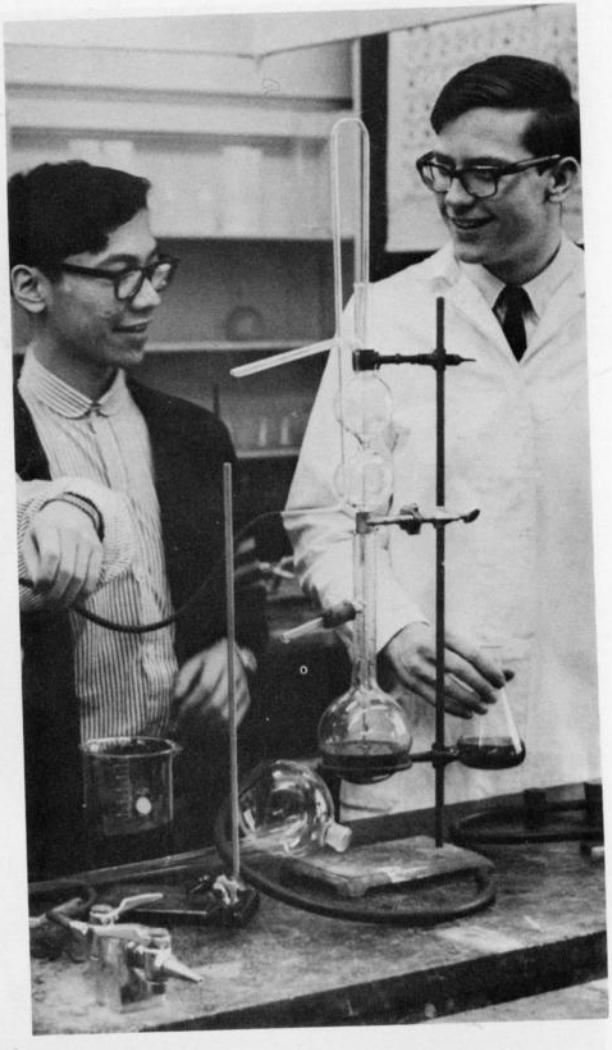
The new Science programs, with their emphasis on laboratory work, are primarily designed to confront our students with problems, which can best be solved by accurate observation and unemotional, unbiased logic. Memorized facts and transitional results are relegated to a role which is considered inferior to the mental processes which produced them. Our basic concern, then, is to produce a socially conscious citizen, capable of thinking in the terms and language of his discipline and capable of helping to introduce the many changes which will come in the next few years.

Moreover, having introduced these changes which will plague and aid every scientific vocation, he should rapidly absorb what is new and smoothly adjust to an ever-new environment.



Biology - The Science of life.

Chemistry experiments must be carefully measured and observed.



Physics - The study of matter and energy.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

The mice in the attic have little chance to play with these cats around. Shirley Goodrow and her hardworking Social Committee "create" morning, noon, and night two weeks before each dance. From their imaginative planning and decoration emerge wonderful dances that merit highest praise.

PUBLICITY

Les Badham, Ruth Whellams, Kathy Holborn, Janis Jones, Mary Ann McCammon, Leona Jickling.

This year's Publicity Committee consisted of six members who worked under the direction of Chairman Mary Ann McCammon each morning, noon, and night, racking their brains for posters to advertise school events. From their little attic room has come a collection of Peanuts and other cartoon characters which added colour to the halls of Vic High.

PREFECTS

Aside from patrolling the corridors of the school at noon hours to assist the staff and students in maintaining order, the Prefects this year, under the direction of Bob Whitmore, supervised all school dances thus relieving the staff and taking another step forward in student government.

CAMOSUNET

Although often beset by membership problems, this year's Camosunet Club has bravely attempted the task of publishing our school newspaper. For originating such ideas as monthly publications and a special literary magazine called "The Rack", editor Allard Van Veen and indeed all members deserve considerable credit. In so doing they gained an awareness of many aspects of journalism. Unfortunately due to lack of general support and appreciation from the student body they were forced to stop publication during part of the school year.

ALPHA

Once again "Active Alpha" enjoyed a successful year. Headed by President, Dennis Carlow, they participated in world service projects, held dances, and played hockey in the early hours of the morning.

The school year of 1966-67 again saw numerous girls in blue and white rushing around at almost all functions. An extra large club of 85 members was kept busy selling food and drink at games, supporting various service projects, and enjoying house parties, camp, the Y-Teen Prom, side trips, and the B.C. Y-Teen Conference. Many thanks must go to Mrs. Seens, Sponsor; and Alisa Lendrum, President, whose support and leadership made all these activities possible.

dent. Alisa Lendrum, President; Mrs. Seens, Sponsor; Shirley Ferguson, Virginia

BETA

1966-67 found the "Beta boys" not only extending their interest in the "Y" but also participating enthusiastically in such school affairs as the penny drive and the Circus. The members of Beta would like to thank Mr. Kirby, their new sponsor, for his support throughout the year.

Mr. Kirby, Greg Schroeder, President; Roger Halfhide, Len Rouche, Rick Couch, Jim Ogmundson.

CAFETERIA

Miss Brazier, Penny Farmer, Joan Pietrzykowski, Pam Lowe, Sylvia McLellan, Stephanie Wong.

Many thanks go to our culinary artisans who, each noon, sold soup, sandwiches, milk, revels, donuts, and other delicacies to the ever-surging line of hungry students.

CASHIERS

As can be seen from the picture, this enthusiastic group of students love money - that is they love to collect money and tickets at all games, soc-hops, and concerts. The valuable service that they perform for the school is greatly appreciated by both the staff and the student body.

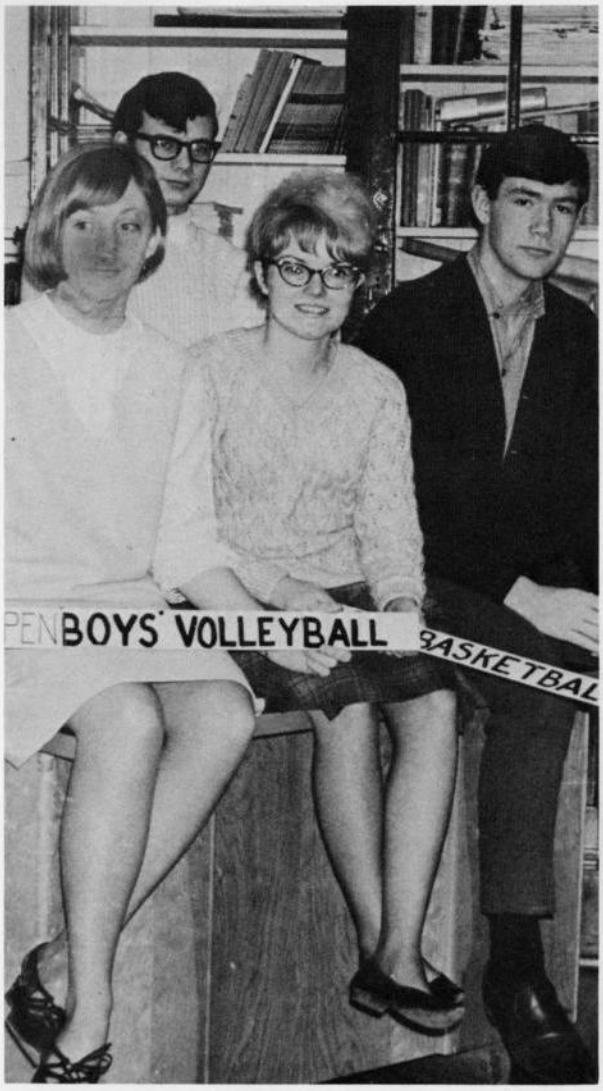
STATISTICIANS

The function of the Statisticians' Club is to maintain, under the direction of sponsor Mr. Nesmith, the extramural scoreboard in the main hall. Thus the members could often be found each noon hour perched atop the ladder, busily adjusting the scores.



FUTURE TEACHERS

A functional organization, the Future Teachers' Club gives its members valuable experience and information regarding the teaching profession, through guest speakers, information about future university courses, observation in elementary classrooms, and education conferences. Mr. Nesmith is the club sponsor, and Linda Lineham is their President.

LIBRARY

"Learning by doing" seems to be the motto of these Junior Librarians, for throughout the year they could be found in the library assisting Mr. George in routine processes such as shelving, repairing, and issuing books. As a reward for their hard work the eighteen club members made numerous field trips to the Oak Bay and University libraries where they not only had an enjoyable time but also gained valuable knowledge of library procedures.

RADIO CLUB

Attention all "hams"! This club is devoted to you. Under the helpful sponsorship of Mr. Salmon the six active members of the Radio Club learned morse code and radio theory, which enabled them to gain their amateur radio licenses. This increase in members and activities contributed to make the past year a most interesting one for all the Vic High "hams".

FINE ARTS

Special praise must go to this year's Fine Arts Club. These twenty gifted artists, under their President, Bill Campbell, have researched and painted the scenery for our stage productions. The quality of their work can be traced to the able sponsorship of Mr. Hemming.

CAMERA CLUB

This year the Camera Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. St. Clair, has purchased some much needed equipment. At dances, games, concerts and other school activities, a club representative is always present to record the event on film. The results are to be seen throughout this annual.

PROJECTIONISTS

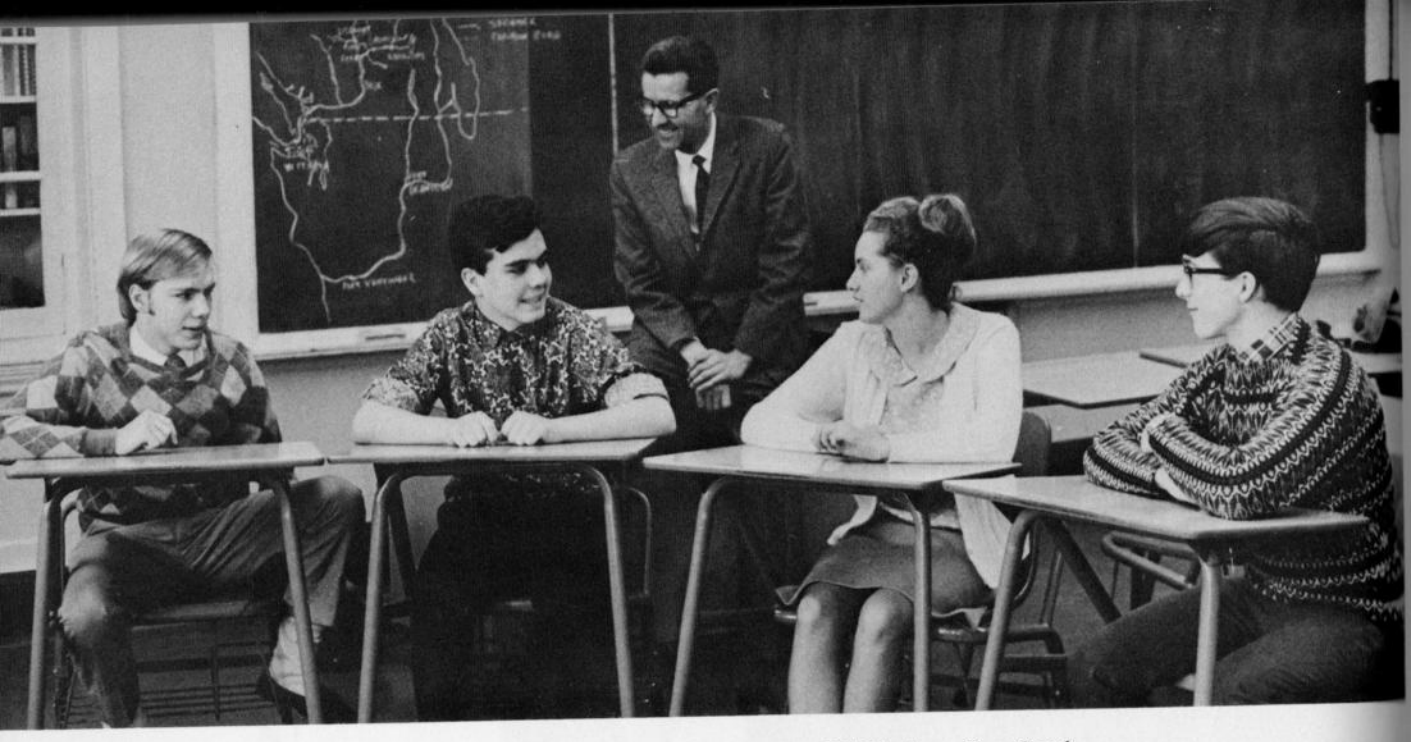
Although small in membership the Red Cross has furthered its purpose of service to people throughout the world. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Jamison and the Presidency of Adrienne Chan, the club has participated in the Inter-High Red Cross Youth Council, filled food hampers for the needy, and assisted others throughout the city by working in nursing homes and in the blood donor clinic.

This well-known organization, composed of President Jack Seto and his numerous faithful followers, assisted in the technical aspects of soc-hops, dances, plays, sports events, morning assemblies and noon hour entertainment. Furthermore, they were often called upon to rescue mystified teachers from the confusions of operating film equipment. Throughout the year they could be found around the projection booth where, despite this uninteresting tally of "achievements" they usually managed to stay awake.

CHEM. LAB. ASSISTANTS

Made up of enthusiastic and alchemically inclined Grade Eleven and Twelve students, the Chem. Club is designed to assist the Science teachers in the preparation, running, and cleaning up of all experiments. Thus the members could be found each day after school in the lab., studying the different chemicals and equipments, practicing their lab. techniques, and having a lot of fun.



Arthur Warren, Peter McKinnon, Mr. Clark, Sponsor; Jill Minnings, Tony Senyk.

SIRC

Having completed its second year, SIRC has found increasing popularity and influence among the students. To achieve its purpose – that is, to make students more aware of world affairs – the executive, headed by sponsor Mr. Clark, has invited such notable speakers as Lynn Curtis of the Company of Young Canadians. Informal debates on many topics including "Anti-Americanism" and "Should Canada Sell Her Water to the U.S." were also used to promote interest.

UNITED NATIONS

1966-67 found the U.N. Club meeting each Monday in Room 305. Here, led by co-sponsors Mr. Stark and Mr. Chesterly and President Gunnar Cordsen, approximately twenty members (along with many others who usually dropped in) entered into free and often violent discussion on any and all political affairs.

I.S.C.F.

Although the objective of I.S.C.F. (Inter-School Christian Fellowship) is to know Christ and to make Him known, it does not promote religious dogma. Instead the members try to learn more about Jesus Christ through a study of different religions, and in turn to apply this knowledge to their lives.

BACK ROW: Mrs. Regan, Tony Quon, Annabelle Turek, Marlene Wuerch.

PHILOSOPHY

Throughout the year the Philosophy Club met regularly on Friday. With Mr. Bloomfield acting as resource man and inspirational guide, the members held discussions on personal and general philosophical problems. Although the regular membership was small all members grew in personal wisdom and awareness as the year passed.

MUSIC APPRECIATION

All - or rather both - the members of the Music Appreciation Club are apparently very appreciative. Cathy Sarginson, President and Secretary; and Joan Ryan, Vice-President, and membership, keep it intact. Their interest includes every kind of music, especially classical. Mr. Roberts is their Sponsor.

Cathy Sarginson, Walter Magee, Joan Ryan.

CHESS

The Chess Club, a challenge to the "keen, intuitive minds" of Vic. High's populace, has a regular membership of ten such intellects. Sponsored by Mr. Chell, and presided over by Edmond Lim, the club is active in provincial as well as inter-school tournaments.

THESPIANS

Once again this year the Thespians, a group of our best dramatic students, have proved their worth through the school by starring in our drama festival production and working behind the scenes.

CALAMITY PLAYERS

If you think the skits at assemblies and pep meets indicate a wildly hilarious group of Calamity Players, you are right. Remember the "scare" - "The Guppies are Coming"? "The Perils of Purity Flower" and "Fun, Fun, Fun" will go down in History 12 as fine dramatic productions from the Centennial year. Credit must go to Mr. Mayne for keeping his sanity for another year. --Where will it all end?

PEP CLUB

As can be seen from the picture these loyal Vic High supporters have done their best to keep the bottle of School Spirits overflowing. Throughout the year they could be found brandishing their tomahawks at Totem games, lustily singing our school song or sporting the latest black and gold outfits.

DEBATING CLUB

Newly formed this year, the Debating Club was designed to revive the spirit of rhetoric within the school. It has held several debates which have been generally successful, although some have ended in near riot. The members of this club leave one last wish: we resolve that the spirit of John Hamilton Gray will guide all Victoria High debaters in the future.

Mr. Chesterly, Sponsor; Cedric Zala, John Adams, Sue Morgan

BIOLOGY CLUB

Our hamster population thrives under the watchful attention of the twelve Biology Club members, whose President is Laurie Luney, and Sponsor, Mr. Foxgord. The club is active with field trips and guest speakers, as well as with detailed lab work on the various biological projects it undertakes.

FUTURE NURSES

To become familiar with the many aspects of nursing, the eighteen members of the Future Nurses' Club are busy with films, guest speakers, field trips to various hospitals, and making books for retarded children. Their President is Pat Gerrard, and their Sponsor is Mrs. Martin.

ORCHESTRA

The four talented young musicians in this picture represent not the Victoria High Orchestra but the Orchestra Class. They are directed by Mr. Stagg, whose musical ability lends them both practical help and moral inspiration throughout the many long hours of practice.

VIC HIGH

CHOIR

These youthful singers are only a small part of both the Folk Song Choir and the Girls' Ensemble--the two new singing groups formed by Mr. Roberts at the beginning of the school year. Under his leadership they played a large part in our Christmas Festival and also provided an opportunity for all those Vic High students who enjoy singing.

BAND

STAGE CREW

With another successful year to its credit, the Stage Crew has again done an impressive job in all of its many activities. The membership, sponsored by Mr. Robb, was large enough to be divided into several sections, with Dave Tubman and Ken Jones on lighting, Al Reeves as set manager, and Bill Campbell as stage manager. The fine results of their work behind the scenes were apparent this year at "Calamity" skits, talent shows, school dances, the Christmas Concert, and the Circus Variety Show. This hard-working group deserves much praise for doing a tough job so well.

SPORTS

Under the excellent coaching of Mr. Price, the Tyees had another successful year. The team won the league without losing a game, their record being 6 wins and 2 ties. In the Colonist Cup they met the second place finishers, Mt. View and won 3-0. For the Mid-Island Championship they played Chemainus and won 3-0. In the Island Final, the team tied 1-1 with Nanaimo. In the following game they won 4-0. As a climax the Tyees met John Oliver for the B.C. Championship and lost 1-0 in a game which they might have won easily.

Dave Graas receives Times Trophy.

SOCCER

B-TEAM

The Tyees B-Team had an extremely successful season this year. Victoria High defeated Oak Bay and Mt. View in every one of their league games. In the play-offs, the Tyees and Oak Bay played for the Big Horn Trophy. The Tyees did everything but put the ball in the net. The game ended in a 1-1 draw. In the next replayed game goals by Keith Humphrey and Lorne Hamilton helped the Tyees in their well-earned 2-0 victory. Thanks go to Mr. Price, who organized and coached the team, and Mr. Berryman who refereed the games.

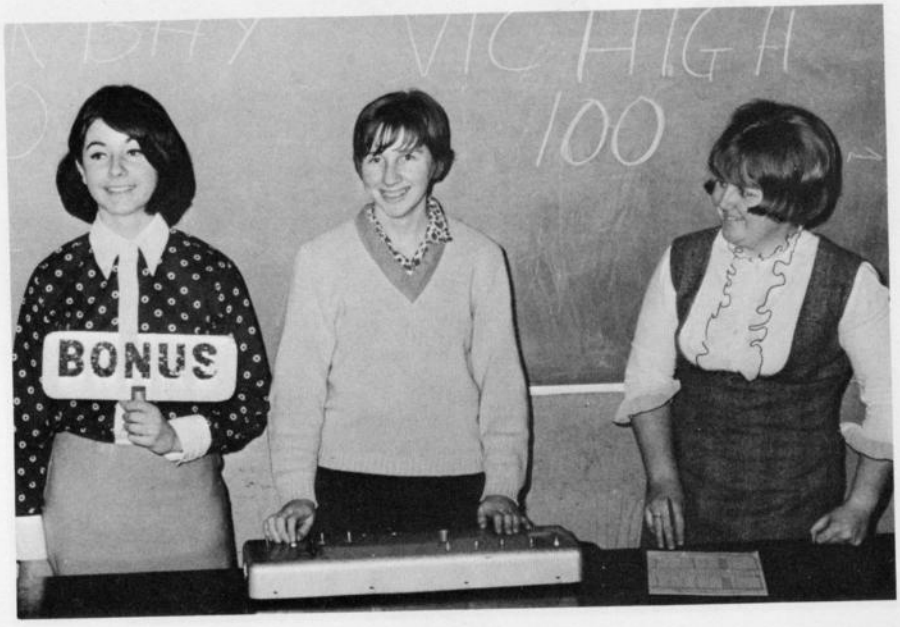
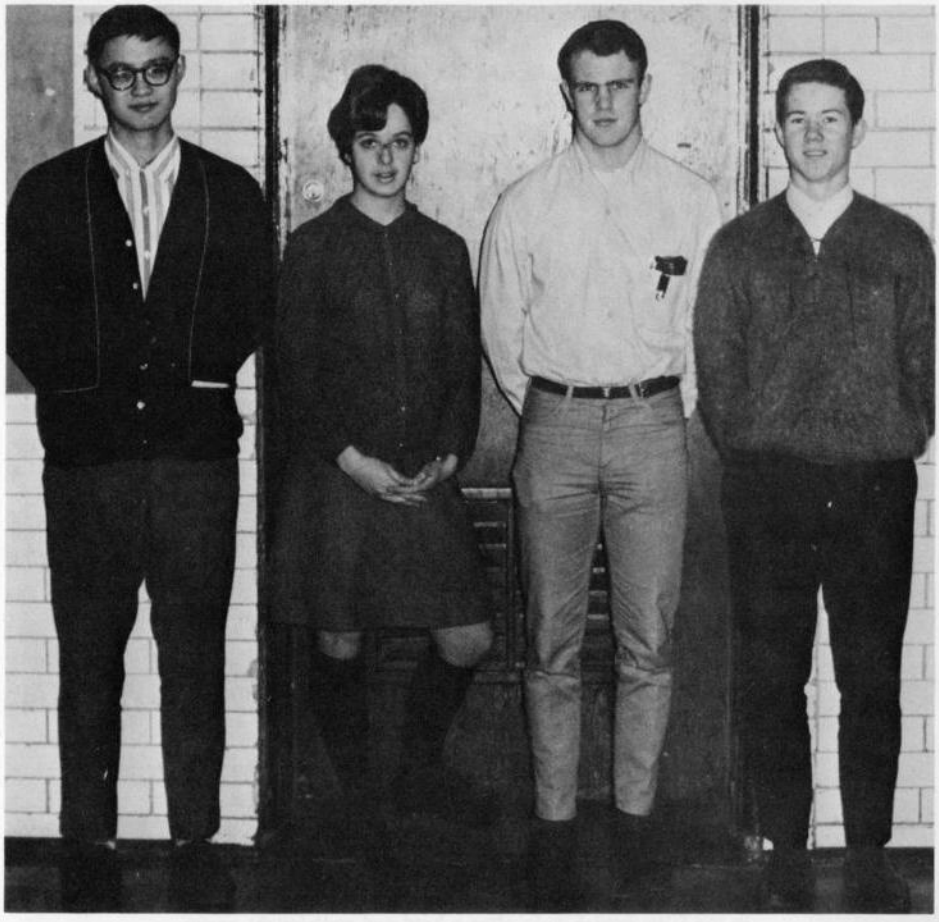
TOMAHAWKS

Although our girls' field hockey team had an active season this year, it was not too successful. The team placed fourth in the city league, and also participated in the Bridgeman Cup; although not winning, the team gained valuable experience. Many thanks to Mrs. Hill for her expert coaching.



SCORERS

This is the devoted little group that kept our school sports events running smoothly. They have scored for Titan, Tiger and Totem games, as well as such intramural sports as volleyball and basketball. Many thanks are extended to JoAnne Ludbrook, Pat Bourne, Sue Turner, and Kathy Newell.



MANAGERS

This is the elite group of efficiency experts, whose job is to distribute athletic equipment and uniforms, and look after the general up-keep of the uniforms. This year the Managers Club was handicapped by the lack of competent members. However, through the devoted services of Barry Chow as President, Roy Scott as Vice-President, and members Anne Boldt and Al Reeves, the club functioned smoothly.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Cross-Country is a small, but well-knit group this year. They have won several races, and despite injuries and illness, they have placed well in every event. Several nights a week the team has jogged to the University for training. Mr. Hartley has once again coached the team, and many thanks go to him for his efforts.

TITANS A,B

Under the able coaching of Mr. Price, the Titans A had a good season. Unfortunately, the season closed when they lost 3-0 to Oak Bay in the City Semi-Finals after a hard and well-fought game.

The Titans B had an excellent season, placing 1st in the City Finals.

It is hoped that next year's team will have more support from the school body.

RUGBY

SWIMMING CLUB

This year, Vic High's Swim Club was quite successful, capturing 5th place in the City Inter-High School Meet with 42 points. Mike Regan broke a record, and won the Senior Boys' Novice 50 yard breast stroke; and the Senior Boys' free relay team placed 5th in the B.C. High School Meet.

The few girls who turned out worked hard, and as a result they took a place on the team. They are also working hard to obtain their life saving certificates (Bronze Medallions).

Sponsor - Miss Westman
Coach - Rick Minckler
Girls' Captain - Yvonne Coupé
Boys' Captain - Bud Graham

BOWLING CLUB

The Bowling Club under the sponsorship of Mr. Linfield has had a most successful year. The rep. team, in defeating its nearest rivals, Oak Bay, have once again won the City title.

President - Dan Clark
Vice-President - John Ross
Secretary - Marilyne Thorsteinson
Sharon Bradley

Girls' Rep. Team	Boys' Rep. Team

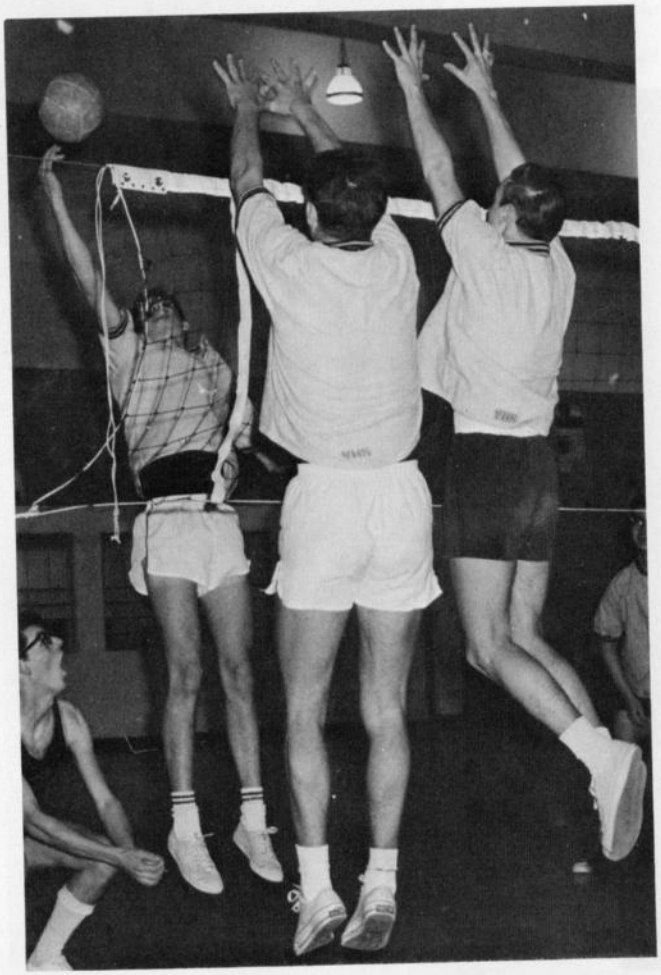
SASQUATCHES

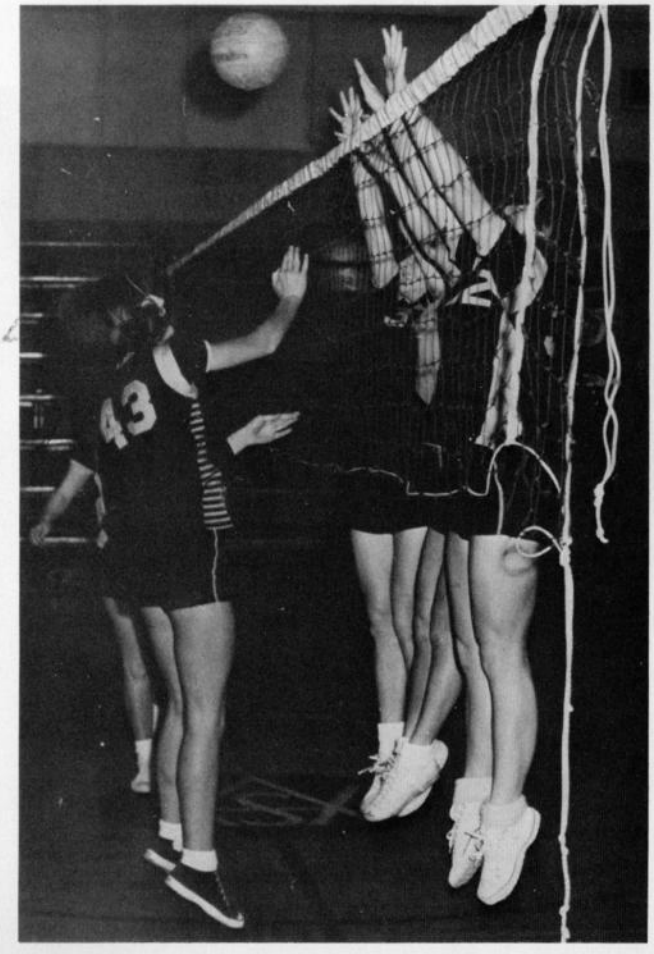


The boys' volleyball team, coached by Mr. Don Smyth, has competed in the U.B.C., U-VIC, and Fort Lewis (in Tacoma) Invitationals, and finished 4th, 3rd, and 2nd respectively.

In the Island Championship, they won all preliminary games but lost 15-13 to Claremont in the final. This game gave them a berth in the B.C. Championship Finals commencing in April at U.B.C.

Members were: Gordie Gillette, John Pennington, Roland Maier, Art Chin, Gary Goy, Al Graves, Barry Moen, and Rick Couch.

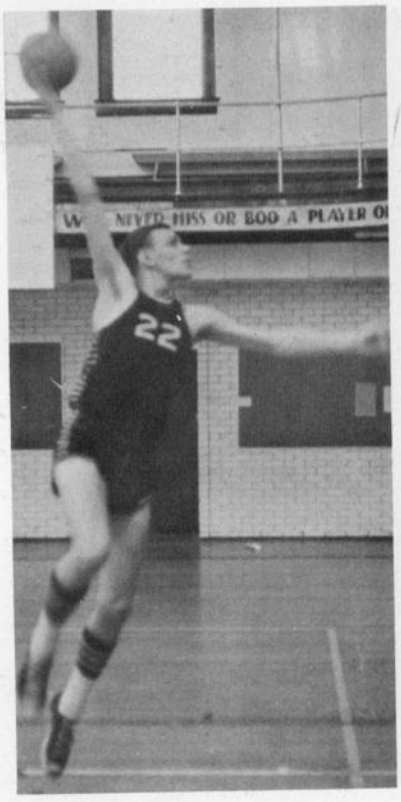
TIKIS



The girls' volleyball team has been quite successful this year. After winning the zone, which qualified them for the B.C. Championship Final at Kamloops, the team placed sixth. They finished second in the league, and they defeated Claremont 15-4 in the Island Final.

The team would like to extend its appreciation and thanks to Mr. D. Smyth for his fine coaching.

Members were: Pat Bourne, JoAnne Ludbrook, Anne McKeachie, Barb Hallberg, Maureen Chan, Kathy Newell, Lynn Toffey, and Lucy Telegus.



Ollie Moilanen
Named to the Island All-Star Team for the third consecutive year.

BACK ROW: Mr. G. Andrews, Coach; Pat Skillings, Bill Clarke,

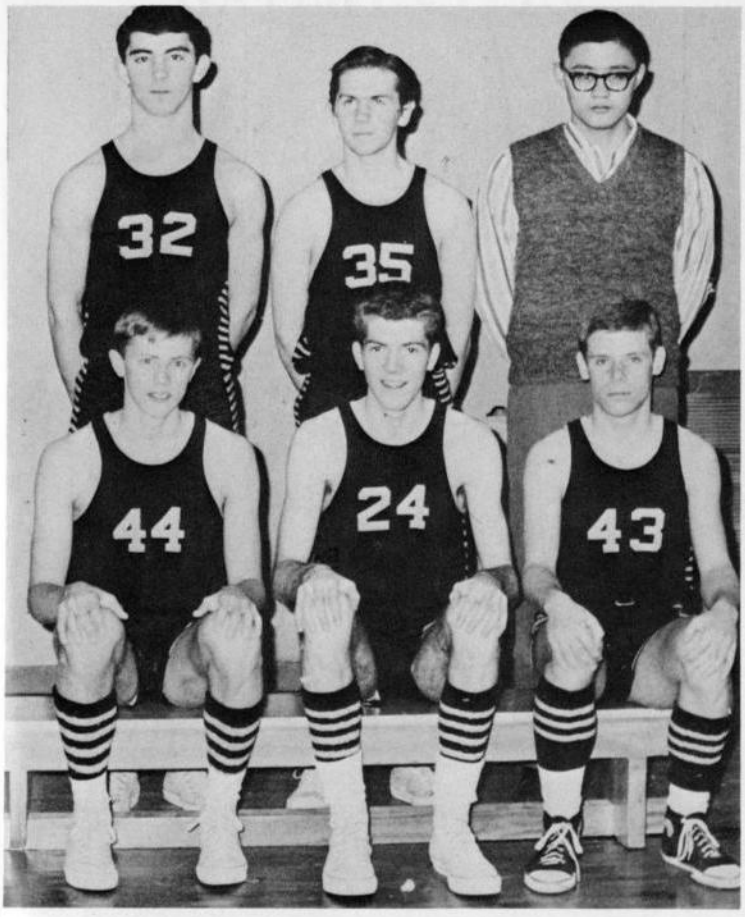
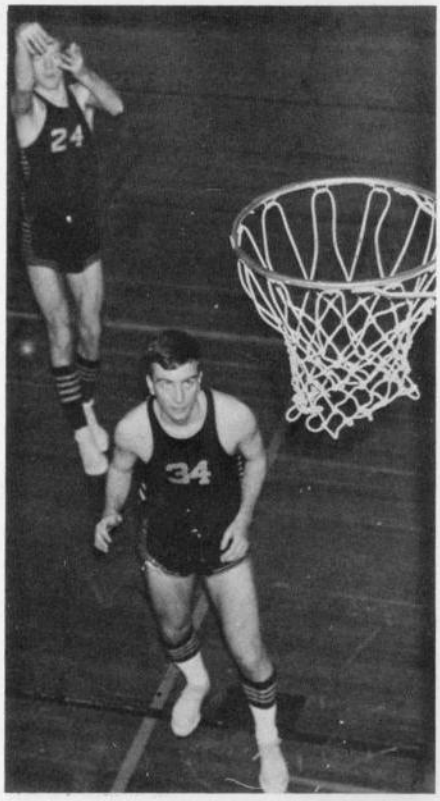
TOTEMS

The Totems, previously rated number two in B.C., ended a fairly successful (16-6) season by losing in the first game of the Island Play-offs. A 40-39 upset by Cowichan High of Duncan brought an early end to the season and forced the Totems to miss the B.C. Play-offs at U.B.C. In January the team travelled to Regina to take part in a Centennial Canada-Wide Tournament. There they placed fourth among eight teams from across Canada. The Totems would like to extend many thanks to Mr. Andrews and the loyal cheerleaders.





Paul Lee, Greg Schroeder, Dave Creed, Barry Chow, Manager;
Dexter Mason, Eric Earl. MISSING: Roger Halfhide.

BACK ROW: Mr. Lorimer, Anne McKeachie, Gail Vaughan, Janis Dicks, Pat Bourne.

TIGERS

Under the coaching of Mr. Gammon, the Tigers had a very active year. In their league, they ended in a tie with Oak Bay, but lost by a score of 25-24 in a hard-fought game. They, however went on to win the Lower Island plus two invitational tournaments. Many thanks go to Mr. Gammon and Mr. and Mrs. Lorimer for supporting us all the way.

BADMINTON

Boys' Rep Team: Al Shaw, Dave Anderson, Roy Scott, Andrew Wharton, Rick Mickelson, Chris Anstey.

The Badminton Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. Pluym and Mr. Ashwell, has enjoyed an active year. The Rep. Team participated in two rounds of inter-high competition, and although not winning, they gave a good account of themselves.

TABLE TENNIS

This club is active mornings, lunch hours, and after school every day. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Chell, there are about 45 members. Linda Lee is President, Cindy Milton, Fay Lee, Robert Tong, and Mike Jacobs are deputies. Most of the major tournaments and the games are not played until spring. The team hopes to participate in the Inter-High Tournament for the Colonist Cup.

At the beginning of the school year, because of the lack of student participation in noon hour games, it was decided to try a new system of intramural sports. A divisional system replaced the house system. Since this change resulted in numerous complaints, the whole matter was reconsidered by class reps, and, as a result of a poll taken in each classroom, the house system was brought back again. It was also agreed upon that the sports representatives should remain in existence, so that there would be a closer contact between the student body and the House Captains.

Come give a cheer for Victoria High,
We never falter, we never die.

That we're fifteen hundred strong
And this is our fighting song.

SEA GULLS

. . . contentedly into the distance.
Fog horns strolled
Bearing upon their shivering backs
The cold, tenacious veil of mom . . .

. . . and from out of shapelessness
With slender wings,
Stretched like bleached sails
Before the frolicking breath,
The gulls glided . . .

Falling like pearls in a tropical sea
They drift down to the swirling bay beneath . . .
Through the layers of crystal chandeliers
Until upon the fury of the frothing swells
They land their wearied souls . . .

In lazy lullaby,
Rocking with the constant rise and fall
Of the incoming and the outgoing,
Their proud halos are tucked against the ruffles
Of superiority . . .
Dodging deadheads,
Minding not as a new kingdom envelops them . . .

. . . into the dimmed wings of the sun
Laughingly the dirty mists disperse . . .

. . . and from the contrast of contours
With flippant wings,
And rude calls
The gulls ride the eastern wind
Up into the grey courts
Of home . . .

TOO LATE

Oft' have I walked along the green on high.
Alone I plod the beaten path and pore
Upon the past, while above me sea gulls soar.
Descending now, I find a spot and there to lie
And quench eternal thirst--to satisfy
My soul I did not wrong, but never more
With vacant heart to laugh as once before;
Now I just think and watch the clouds sift by.
'Twas yesterday that I in angry fit
Threw far away the love I once held dear,
But now, in after thought, if I could lend
The thoughts within to say that infinite
My love, but with the tide it's gone. I fear
It can't resurge the love of my lost friend.

Janet Arnold

ELEGY TO SHAWN

Far from my lonely watch upon our rocks,
You'll gasp no more for breath with our rowdy wind.
Invincible one, you never lost a fight
But one; the final one; the one that ends our time.

I'm sitting on our rock remembering how
You used to smile, and wink one eye to laugh
At me; and I was happy on that hill with you
Once; before the valley wrenched you down.

Now from the trees, our wind, it blows a dirge
More sorrowful than a foghorn in the mist
We used to walk in. It wished it were a dream
But consciousness enforces its stern truth.

Your memory will still pervade my mind
When time has stayed the flow of streaming tears.
As a final kiss took pain from violent death,
Its echo shall relieve my dully aching soul.

MOMENTUM (p = mv)

The highway lines the landscape vast and wide,
Projectiles numberless go racing by,
Blurred faces mindless read the signs that guide
Their paths; Nor any on sudden impulse cry,
"Look! Stop! Let's rest a while beside this lake
And fish and swim before we go our way.
The highway waits for everyone; we make
An undue haste. The sun shines bright today.
A car is bound to tried and tested ways
And thinks not of its purpose as it goes.
That mountain yonder, come, let's climb. Who knows
If the peak where that lone pine grows gnarled but gay
May show us better sights by far than those
To which we now rush pell mell, day on day." . . .

John Pennington

The melancholy months have passed me slow.
My life would be a fire, but lacks the coal;
My words would ring with hope, but where's the soul?
When elders think as children do, and "know"
That since the multitudes agree, ergo,
Unbending, rigid faith must be the sole
Infusion of their minds, and be their goal . . .
(The earth is flat, as common sense will show)
I 'gin to learn that I must walk alone
And do what only I believe is right
Before I lose my Self on others' ground.
And if I try to change another's plight
I must be sure my thinking is my own
And clear my mind of any foreign sound.

MACDONALD DAY

On January 11 all Canadians were to have patriotically celebrated the birth of our first prime minister, Sir John A. Macdonald. Fortunately most provinces failed to observe this day as a holiday and in so doing saved the Canadian nation from a humiliating retrogressive step in its advancement.

As Canadians, most of us are proud of our country and its achievements; in searching for wonderful events in our past, however, we must not stray from the bounds of history. To celebrate Sir John A.'s birthday as was done in Ontario, with pageantry, fireworks, and holidays, portrays Macdonald as a unique symbol of the "perfect" Canadian. This is wrong! Although his vision of Canada was remarkable, and some of his achievements were superb, we must remember always that many other figures such as Laurier, Bordon, and King have done as much to make Canada as did Macdonald. We must remember, too, that Macdonald made serious mistakes, especially in his handling of French-English relations. To make him a God and to show only his better side, or worse, not show any side, but merely say "he was a great man", is folly.

We must portray our history as it really happened and not as a make-believe fantasy of heroes with unfaltering virtue. Of course there have been outstanding men in our past. The lives of these people must be studied. But why should we proclaim holidays for their births? The British do not celebrate Disraeli Day or Churchill Day; the French don't even celebrate Napoleon Day. Why should Canadians celebrate Macdonald Day?

The anti-Centennial "Clique."

The answer lies in the fact that Americans celebrate Washington and Lincoln days. Although both these men made many mistakes, and were not overwhelmingly popular during their terms in office, only their good points are brought forth, and to denounce these men is almost to blaspheme. The Americans believe they must have heroes to worship before they can achieve nationhood.

If Canadians start celebrating Macdonald Day now, within a decade we could make Sir John A. an equal of George Washington. We would have a national identity at last! But do we want this? Of course not! We want a true spontaneous nationalism. We don't want to manufacture nationalism falsely. Perhaps Canadians, who are drawn from all races and nationalities, could look to the world brotherhood of mankind for a true "national" spirit instead of always looking inwards at themselves in despair.

If Macdonald's contribution was so small that we need a holiday to preserve his name, he should be left in our history books. Let us not try to produce a false nationalism by distorting our history through biased propaganda aimed at glorifying one man. Let us live the present in truth, and the future will take care of itself. Some day we will have an identity; but let's not base it upon Sir John A. Macdonald.

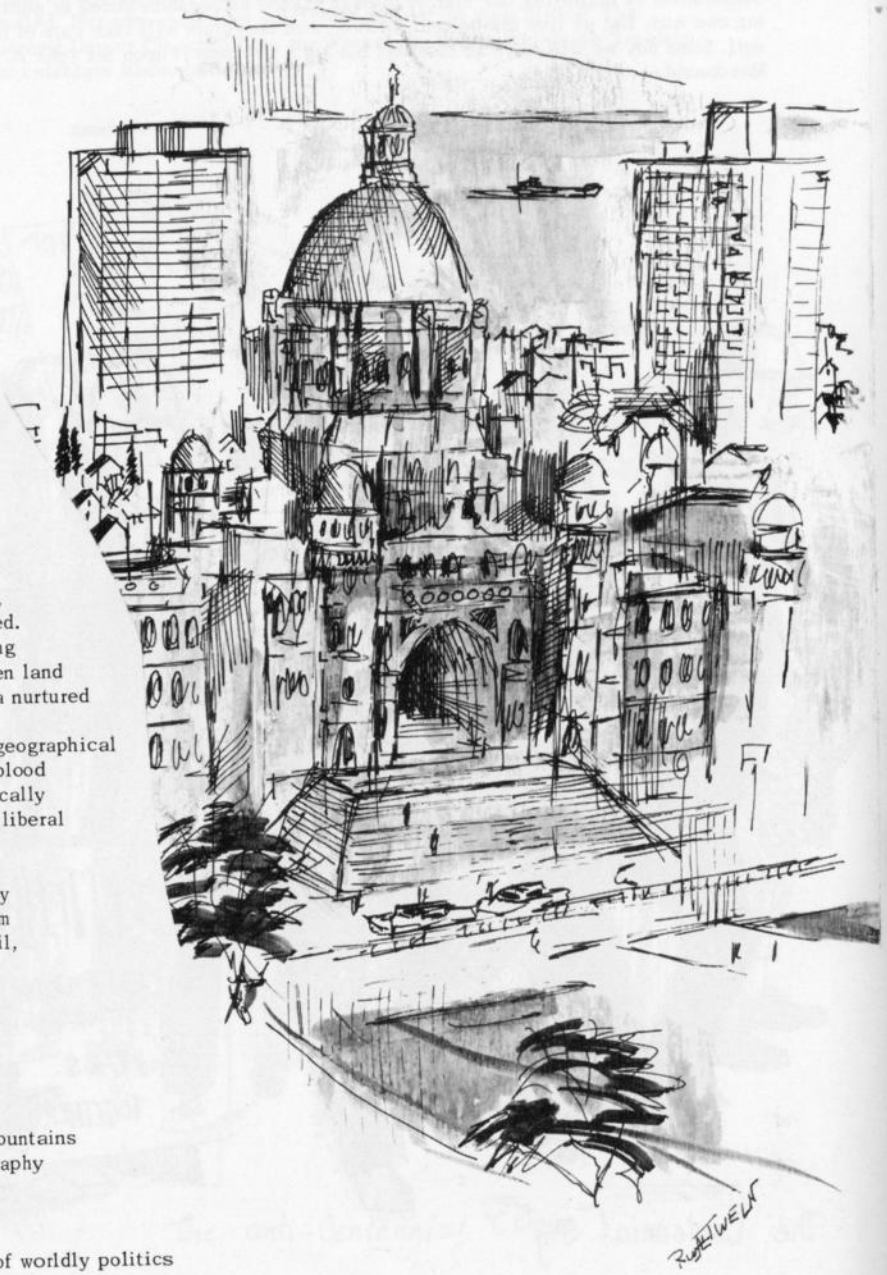
John Adams

The Centennial "Jig"

TO CANADA

A hundred years have come and passed
And what remains?
Memories of present, and other days.
Union of a nation strong, proud, and free;
A glorious land stretching wide, from sea to sea;
A country young, searching for its place to hold;
A country big enough for room to spread;
A land where a boy can grow up standing tall;
A place where truth and peace WILL abound;
A place where justice's strength is straightly used;
A nation whose youths are not afraid
To face the turmoiled world that wars have made;
A land, a country, a nation
Rising high
Whose potential, hopes, and dreams will soon be realized.

Molly Carr



1867-1967

She sits like a dappled Queen
Looking at her own majesty: a white crown,
A watery zone, mountains fair, sun bedecked.
She sits on mountains in the West, splashing
Her feet in the east. This land, this between land
Born not out of revolution, but growing as a nurtured
Child; a vision out of men's minds, formed
Not by chains of conformity of thought, or geographical
Expression, but feasibly tied, by iron and blood
Like a ribbon laid on a card of love. Politically
She is beyond her years, conservative, yet liberal
With her own, and only a century old, with
More time to unfold her glory to the world.
She is the last refuge of all peoples, hungry
And poor, for now in her fair bosom, is room
To expand, to build, to feel the air, the soil,
The ALL that makes a land, the land
That moulds a generation out of her
Hard stone, Rejoice; behold; She's ours
To guard, to beautify and to love. Be not
So introspective in your outlook, for you
Are part of her, moving serenely across
The stage where audiences thunder in
Applause. Let her shores and lakes and mountains
Reflect her outlook on the world; let geography
Be not a division but a challenge for unity
In the future. Then let her growth nurture
Her own children with eyes
On both sides of the shore. As pressures of worldly politics
Will strain her steel chains every link
A lease to hold strong, "Together we stand, divided we fall".

SUMMER, 1967

VALEDICTORY

Mr. Lorimer, members of the staff, honoured guests, and parents:

You will have to excuse us graduating students here on the platform if all this seems a bit foreign. You see, this is the first time we've been involved in a recognition ceremony. Some of you, I know, are veterans at this sort of thing, compared to us beginners. This is by way of excusing myself: I didn't know what a valedictory speech was, so I went to a dictionary, and found: 'Valedictory – (words used in) bidding farewell'.

Bidding Farewell

All of us here before you have something to bid farewell to here at Vic High. (I say 'Vic High', because it will never be called 'Victoria Secondary School' by its students). We bid farewell to drinking fountains stragically set at knee level. We bid farewell to fires and bomb threats which, as a new Vic High tradition, occur on the first sunny days of the year. We bid farewell to buzzers that hum. To huge cafeteria line-ups. And the platitudes on the balcony of the old gym. And the long, wet walk from Fairey Tech to the main building. We will remember and laugh at such little eccentricities that the old school carries with it: these are things we have all lived with for the past several years. But there are countless little personal phrases or happenings or places that mark a curious phenomenon, a phenomenon only possible where a student spends as much time at school as he does at home, a phenomenon found especially in our school: that of a close, even intimate, relationship between an individual – and a building. All the friends we have made here will always, in our memories, be associated with memories of this school. And if the buzzers ever buzzed, or if classrooms were ever warm on Monday mornings, it just wouldn't be the same; there'd be something missing.

This year, it's our turn to feel mixed emotions; it's our turn to realize that there are many close friends and co-workers here that we'll probably never see again; it's our turn to celebrate, and laugh, and dance; and then stop and wonder what ever happened to the last twelve years. All the work put into our schooling by remote workers in the Department of Education and School Board, by teachers from Grade I to Grade XII, by our parents – everything seems to boil down in our memories to a jumbled collection of isolated incidents that we'll remember as our school years, incidents that come to a climax in this ceremony tonight.

For this ceremony marks the completion of a big chunk of our lives, and a very memorable part. So we'll bid farewell to a building that's more than just a building, and people that are more than just staff or students or teachers or friends.

Farewell.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * *

DENIS JOHNSON

But wait a minute. That's not enough. We can't just bid farewell, and have nowhere to go and no aims to carry us there.

We have to take our sheltered twelve year's experience, and with it take our places in the adult world: a few in higher education, but most in the infinitely more real world of the Labour Force. And it's no flower opening up, nor the first whistle of a sporting match, nor a trickle of the stream of life: It's a bloody tough world we're heading into: surely no one knows it better than our generation.

You see before you the youth of today! Not a bad-looking crew really; a very handsome group, wearing suits and formals. How will we look wearing responsibility?

In spite of all the advances of modern science, we are going out into a world that is morally confused and ethically sick. Can we, as a group, as the graduating class of 1967, make it better?

No. Not as a group. How could we? This group will no longer exist in another month, and will never be assembled again. No, when it comes right down to where we're headed on this speck of dust whirling through space, we are not a group, we are not a class. We are 402 separate and distinct individuals, a fact sometimes lost in our mass educational system; and these individuals all have different aims and hopes. But we do have one desire in common: the desire to make the world a better place to live in. The contribution of any one person toward this goal 'can be small, but never insignificant'. And a few simple principles – sincerity, compassion, and sticking up for what is right – can carry mankind to a better world when practiced by a host of individuals. These may not make headlines, but they can make a society in which we can be proud to take our places.

You may smile at another generation of young idealists; but another young idealist a century ago said, 'A man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's a heaven for.' We'll leave this building tonight, we celebrate and have fun, and then we'll dig in and try to make a significant contribution to our generation, and our world.

Farewell.
